

English department motion re: Statute 24

The English Department regards the University Administration's attempt to reform Statute 24 as unnecessary, unjust and an attack on academic freedom. It believes the reform will worsen the job security of academic staff and calls on Senate to reject it.